WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

Dry weather and above normal temperatures will return to northern California today. Temperatures will fall to near normal starting Wednesday through the weekend as an upper level trough shifts over the Pacific North West.

San Francisco Weather:

A cooling trend will begin today and then continue through midweek as onshore winds return to the bay area. Seasonable temperatures with continued dry weather are then forecast through the upcoming weekend.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY

Sacramento Weather:

Another day of slightly less hot weather today with more significant cooling expected Wednesday and Thursday. Dry conditions along with periods of locally breezy north winds will continue critical fire danger. A slight chance of late day thunderstorms will be possible over the Sierra Nevada south of Lake Tahoe.

Hanford Weather:

A low pressure system aloft moves into the central California region today and is bringing in cooler temperatures and breezy conditions. By Wednesday another trough of low pressure will set up along the west coast bringing temperatures closer to normal levels through the weekend.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

A weak upper level low will move into the forecast area today bringing cooler weather to the region with slight additional cooling on Wednesday. Then temperatures are expected to be generally near to slightly below normal through early next week as a broad trough lingers across the western states. There will be typical night through morning low clouds and fog in coastal and most valley areas through the period.

Extreme Southwestern California Including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

A ridge of high pressure aloft will drift east through Wednesday as a weak low pressure center moves inland off the Pacific. This will allow the heat over the mountains and deserts to moderate and cause the marine layer to deepen and push farther inland. By Wednesday temperatures will be near seasonal averages. Little change is expected through early next week with areas low clouds and fog extending into the valleys each morning followed by mostly sunny afternoons away from the beaches. Gusty westerly winds will continue through the mountain passes and into the deserts at times.

Southeast California Weather:

A slight chance for afternoon and early evening thunderstorms with rain will remain confined to the sierra and the higher terrain of the southern great basin through Wednesday. In the Mojave Desert stronger southwest winds are expected on Tuesday with gusts as high as 30 knots. Winds should return to typical summertime patterns on Wednesday.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- The SOC is activated at Level 2 in support of the Drought State of Emergency from 0800-1700 hours daily.
- The Inland REOC is activated at Level 2 from 0800-1700 Monday through Friday or as needed.
- The Southern REOC is activated at Level 1.
- The Santa Barbara County OA EOC is activated at Level 2 to be handled by the duty officer for the purpose of monitoring activities and gaining situational awareness. The operational period is 0800-1700 hours.

Situational Summary

On January 17, 2014 Governor Edmund G. Brown proclaimed a State of Emergency and directed state officials to take all necessary actions to prepare for drought conditions. The State Operation Center (SOC) is activated to implement objectives in support of the Governor's priorities. The lack of winter rain and snowfall has resulted in extremely dry conditions in many parts of the State. Reservoir levels are down significantly from where they should be on average for this time of year. If conditions continue without substantial rainfall, severe impacts to municipal water supplies, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities are likely in store for the State over the next few months. Negative economic impacts will also result.

**As our state's rainy season comes to an end, it is highly unlikely that precipitation totals will increase significantly. This winter's below average rain and snowfall worsens conditions in this third straight dry year.***

The drought could result in severe impacts to the municipal water supplies, wells, agriculture (plants and livestock) and firefighting capabilities for several months. The SOC continues to be activated to monitor the situation statewide, and support regional and local operational areas.

- The Taskforce continues to meet regularly to take actions that conserve water and coordinate state response to the drought.
- The final manual snowpack survey of the season was conducted on Thursday (May 1) and showed California snowpack at 18% of normal. A more recent update using automated devices shows snowpack at 0% of normal as of June 3.
- DWR has announced that water essential for health and safety will be delivered through the state water project. The current State Water Project Allocation is 5%.
- Cal OES continues to gather drought-related costs from state agencies and local governments.
